

Lifting the cross-ownership ban is very bad for consumers. The news media in the US is already in a very sorry state, in terms of unbiased reporting of ALL issues. There is way too much control of the news by the corporated owners and further limiting control of the news media to fewer and fewer corporations simply and plainly compounds the problem. Doesn't the word 'anti-trust' mean anything anymore?